PHILOSOPHY THE SOURCE OF SCIENCE

McGill Philosophical Society
To Meet next Thursday.

OPEN TO ALL.

Election Of Officers For Coming Session To Be Held.

The Philosophical Society of McGill University will hold a meeting on Thursday, October 14th, at 4 p.m., in the Arts Building, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming session, also to enroll new members.

The Philosophical Club has been in existence for many years, and is now considered to be one of the most important and influential societies of McGill. This organization has always had the whole and unstinted support of the professors of the Department of Philosophy, and has been consistently considered as a great factor in promoting interest in philosophical questions.

Philosophy in early Greek days was recognized as the only study worth pursuing, and it comprised all the known science of the day.

All modern sciences have evolved from Philosophy, and this point should be sufficient to convince all students of the necessity and importance of a knowledge of an acquaintance with this branch of thought. Philosophy is the science of things through their highest or ultimate causes, so far as it may be attained by light of reason; and thus we see that no man can truly know a subject without having also treated it from the philosophical aspect.

Philosophy is not too profound for any thinking man; and the man has yet to be born who may prove it to be too trivial. Every one of us is a potential philosopher. From early childhood, through youth, manhood, and old age, man has his philosophy, precepts and principles by which to guide his actions in life.

"Quot homines, tot sententiae," said a well-known classic, "every man has his opinion," and every member is given an opportunity to voice his opinion at the Philosophical Club.

Pipers are read and addresses are delivered by different members and professors, and very often eminent outsiders are invited to address the meetings.

In former years the membership was limited to Arts students only, but owing to the growing desire of the students of the other faculties to join, the executive has decided to invite all students from all faculties. By removing this restriction, the students from the R.V.C. become eligible for membership, also all students from Law, Medicine, Science and Theology.

That this society has a great influence is shown by the fact that many well-known citizens often attend the meetings and show a marked interest in the proceedings and take part in the discussions.

Ambitious Plans For Christmas Vacation Discussed and Executive Elected.

Last evening an inaugural meeting of the Basketball Club was held at the Union, there being a large turnout of enthusiasts. Plans for the coming season were discussed, and there are big prospects for a most successful year.

The executive elected:
Hon. president—Dr. Lamb.
President—Cecil Hay, Med. '23.
Vice-pres.—Lou Kern, Arts '21.
Sec.-treas.—G. L. Parlow, Med. '23.
Reporter—W. Beveridge, Med. '24.
Faculty representatives—Med., L. Little; Science, E. Crain; Arts, M. Kern.

Among the plans considered was that for a trip during the Christmas holidays to play exhibition games with some American colleges. A committee, consisting of A. L. Parlow, N. Kemp and S. H. Davis, was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

It is expected that the Montreal High School gymnasium will be used this year for practices and games. P. M. Van Wagner was elected to coach the teams. Van has had great

LAST CHANCE FOR PLAYING FIRST ROUND

Only Half Matches Have Been Completed.

TENNIS RESULTS.

Laggards Must Play To-night
Or Lose Games By Default.

The first round of the Tennis Tournament has not progressed nearly as well as the executive hoped it would. Out of twenty-three matches only eleven have been finished, which leaves more than half incomplete. There are some members who do not realize that these first games must be played, if we are to get the tournament finished before the snow comes.

It has been found necessary to make 5.30 this afternoon the latest hour at which one of these first round games may be played. If a member is present at the courts this afternoon, and his opponent has not turned up by the above time, he will be entitled to take the match by default. Four courts will be reserved for playing the games. They will be No's. 1, 2, 4 and 5. No. 3 will be reserved for the players who have the most chance of making the team, in order that they may keep in practice, members who have not as yet played their first round is requested to be out this afternoon as early as possible, so that the courts will not be too congested about 4.30 and 5 o'clock.

The games which have so far been played in the tournament have been closely contested in many cases, and have on the whole been a much better grade of tennis than was seen last year at this time. The results of these matches are given below:—

L. W. Brown, vs. C. B. Copeland. Brown, 6—2, 6—4.
E. C. Common, vs. B. B. Tucker. Common, 6—2, 5—7, 6—3.
J. Howell, vs. C. D. Fleming. Howell, 6—1, 6—2.

G. B. Gordon, vs. G. McTaggart. McTaggart, 6—3, 6—3.
C. W. Fullerton, vs. J. F. Chisholm. Chisholm, 6—4, 3—6, 7—5.

J. B. Rutherford, vs. M. R. Wells. Wells, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2.
J. O'Halloran, vs. C. F. Richardson. O'Halloran, 6—0, 6—3.
H. A. Martin, vs. R. Sewell. Martin, 6—2, 6—8, 6—2.

H. C. Bussiere, vs. L. Sessenwein. Sessenwein, 6—4, 6—3.
W. F. Crocker, vs. G. F. McCarthy. Crocker, 6—0, 6—0.
L. G. Cox, vs. H. T. Brown. Cox, 6—3, 6—3.

The rating of the class A men has changed a little, and is gradually sorting itself out into the correct order. The names are given in the following list:—

1—C. Ramsey
2—Crocker
3—Bernard
4—Wright
5—Claxton
6—Ward
7—Parker
8—O'Halloran

MATCH AT MAC FOR JUNIOR TEAM TO-DAY

Midweek Attraction Will Draw Many Supporters.

VICTORY FORETOLD.

Forbes Withdraws From Senior Team Owing To Injury.

McGill thirds are prepared to duplicate their performance of last Saturday when they buck up against the Macdonald Aggies in the second game of the Quebec Rugby League which is scheduled to be played this afternoon at St. Anne. Last Saturday the Juniors had little trouble in disposing of Loyola, and with a strengthened squad, the snappy aggregation from the University will be out to add a further notch towards the championship. As is usual with games at the Aggies' grounds, it is anticipated that a large crowd of supporters will follow the squad on a mid-week trip to the country.

Following the showing made by the Juniors last Saturday, great things are expected of them in forthcoming matches. The squad is one of the best of its kind which has worn the Red and White for several years. The line is husky and the back division strong on the tackle, in kicking and carrying the ball. Several of the individual players have made an excellent impression with the rail-birds, who force for them a step into faster company before long. Puddicombe at middle wing shapes up well and should prove a dangerous man for the Aggies this afternoon. Eddie Crain, at quarter, has returned to the game after a week's absence and will add greatly to the strength of the fourteen both in defence and attack. Mallison will be found at flying wing again this afternoon, and the fifty line-plunger bids fair to prove one of the wactors in the downfall of the Mac squad. Williamson will replace Falconer at half and Easson will play at left outside, otherwise the team will be the same as that which defeated Loyola last week.

Players who have been warned for the game will report to the Union for lunch at 12 noon and will proceed to St. Anne by auto at 1 p.m.

The team will take the field as follows:

Flying wing, Mallison; halves, Pierce, Whitall and Williamson; quarter, Crain; scrummage, Reid, Evand and Johnston; outside, Hamilton and Eason; inside, Foss and Donegan; middle, Puddicombe and Emo. Spares, Falconer, Harling, Grant, Layhew and Matthews.

After its rest on Monday the Senior squad was out in force yesterday afternoon at the stadium and put in a light work-out against the team. Karl Forbes was the only absentee, the crack in the cheek he received having forced the sturdy centre scrum-mager to retire for the season. Examination (Continued on Page 2)

ALL STUDENTS MEET IN R. V.

Bishop W. F. McDowell,
D.D., To Lecture on "The Bible and Life."

The Board of Governors, Dean and Faculty of the Theological Colleges affiliated to McGill University, invite all students of the University to be present at the opening lecture of the session, to be delivered by Bishop William Fraser McDowell, D.D., of Washington, in the Royal Victoria College, on Thursday evening, October 14th, at 8 o'clock. The subject of his address will be "The Bible and Life."

As the title of his address indicates, the address will be one covering a great deal of ground, ground on which the student is not very firmly fixed. Especially so is this true of the Freshmen, who are inclined to accept the title acquired by the McGill Handbook literally.

The address will be one of interest to all, and it is hoped that a good majority will take advantage of the invitation so cordially extended to them.

The advice of an older man is always of value to those who so far have not encountered any of life's more serious problems.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1920.

McGILL AND MONTREAL

The campaign which has just been launched with a view to collecting five million dollars for McGill is a big affair; but we must accustom ourselves to thinking in a spacious way of our college. Her appeal is to the whole nation and the results achieved will be a direct measure of the interest taken by Canadians in the University. No purely local success can now satisfy McGill's demand.

This is but natural. McGill is far more cosmopolitan, in the best sense of the word, than any other similar institution in the Dominion. She is not the college of any city or province and her professors and students alike are drawn from all parts of the country. Men of every race, of every creed, are welcomed to her class-rooms, and the air of her campus is, we are thankful to say, clear of the clouds of prejudice and intolerance to a degree that is unusual in these troublous times.

Nevertheless, when emphasizing the all-embracing character of McGill's composition, one must not lose sight of the fact that the situation of a college exercises a distinct influence upon it. McGill may not be the University of Montreal, but she is IN Montreal, and as long as she is there, there is bound to be a continual interchange of ideas and impressions between the university and the city. Hundreds, thousands indeed, of our students live in Montreal during more than half the year, meet its citizens and patronize its amusements and business houses. On the other hand, McGill's name appears in the local newspapers—too rarely, alas, outside of the sporting pages—and lectures are given at times by her professors. Streams of Montrealers pour daily past the university campus and the various buildings are pointed out to tourists with, we imagine, a certain pride. And yet a great deal might yet be said and done to bring McGill and Montreal closer together.

We seldom see stress laid upon the fact—and it is a fact—that the presence of our university in the city makes of it something more than a commercial metropolis. A centre of learning is an attraction for many people who are too much accustomed to seeing tall buildings and factory chimneys to bother travelling a long way in order to see more. Only this week we are welcoming the most prominent surgeons of America to the city and a McGill man is president of the American College of Surgeons. Apart from this, the beauty of McGill's site and buildings is an attraction in itself. It is indeed refreshing to turn away from "sky-scrapers" of steel and brick and rest one's eyes upon the ivy-clad stone of the university buildings. In this autumn season, with elms and maples donning their full glory along her avenues, our beloved college takes on an air of dignity and classical grace. As an adornment to Montreal she does not yield place to any of the institutions for which the city is noted.

It is on the intellectual side, however, that McGill's value to the community appears most marked. Men of business are beginning to see, as never before, what an asset a college training can be. The studies of Law, Political Economy and History are regarded in their true light as necessary to a proper understanding of the meaning of citizenship. Social service workers trained at the university are able to spend part of their time in helping to make the city cleaner, healthier and safer. The value of medical and scientific training has, of course, never been disputed.

Extension courses are offered for the benefit of those who are able to spend part of their time in study, and we are pleased to note, the opportunity is not being neglected. More of such co-operation between "town" and "gown" would be beneficial to both parties.

Upon such firm ground, then, does McGill base her appeal for assistance. All Canada takes an interest in her welfare, and is expected to answer the call generously. How much more have we the right to anticipate such a response from the city of Montreal.

Correspondence

The "Daily" is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY. No communications will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Sir,—
Among the twenty-five names selected for the Golf Match against the Staff next Friday are several who are handicapped much above the writer and several of his friends. Nor could the names have been selected in the order in which they were received, for I know of two players who submitted their early last week. It would also appear that other considerations than that of merit entered into the selection of the players. An explanation would be most welcome.

Yours, etc.,
LAST YEAR PERFORMER.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Sir,—
After reading, and re-reading, and then reading again, the letter of the baptized Mr. Kavanagh, which appeared in yesterday's issue of the "McGill Daily," I have come to the conclusion that his intention was to convey to the student body at large a description of the sendoff which he and his Routers' Club, consisting of Mr. Frank Genest, gave to the football team on its departure for Kingston last Saturday evening.

If Mr. Kavanagh's letter does nothing else, it at least brings to light a budding rival for the lexicography honors now held by the late Mr. Webster. If Mr. Kavanagh's cheers were as lusty as his language was flowery, I fall to see where the team needed any other encouragement in the way of rooting. McGill is to be congratulated on the acquisition of so enthusiastic a critic as Mr. Kavanagh, and may he again dip his over-flowing pen into the murky fluid and favor us with another diversion for the nine o'clock lecture.

Yours truly,
VOV POPULI.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Sir,—
The recent correspondence between "Spartacus" and other members of the staff have at last persuaded me to send a few lines.

As a student I ask for an independent, fearless College Daily which through its editorials will reflect the hopes and aspirations of the hundreds of young men thronging Old McGill.

Your paper should be a leader. It should catch the "voices in the air" if it wishes to justify its most important position as an editor. Yours is the unique opportunity of developing Canada's greatest benefit derived from the war—her soul, her personality, her national existence.

Instead of sowing in such a fertile hot-bed, you devote long columns to the activities of the McGill Y.M.C.A., whose evangelizing programme and odd collections for Indians should have no place in our College.

There is something worth trying to do—enlarge the truly national spirit, or, if you prefer it, follow the Imperialistic Press and stifle all attempts at national expression.

Let's have some policy, anyway.
WATCHER.

R. V. C. NOTES

R. V. C. '21.
There will be a meeting of R. V. C. '21 to-day, Oct. 13, in the Common Room. A full attendance is requested, as important business is to be discussed.

R. V. C. '22.
An important meeting of R. V. C. '22 will be held in Room 12 of R. V. C. Wednesday morning at 1 p.m.

At a meeting of R. V. C. '24 on Tuesday, October 12, the following officers were elected:—

President, C. Robertson.
Vice-President, P. Murray.
Rep. Vice-President, M. Reid.
Secretary-Treasurer, K. Dawson.
Delta Sigma (pro tem), M. Bishop.
Poster Rep., J. Matheson.
Basketball Manager, M. Cameron.
Tennis Manager, M. Elliot.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLUB.

The first meeting of the Social Service Club will be held in the Arts Building on Friday, October 15, at 7.30 p.m. The students of the R. V. C. were made eligible for membership last year, and all those interested in social service are invited to attend.

ALLEN.

"Ghosts of Yesterday," starring Norma Talmadge and a re-issue of one of her three best productions, and Will Rogers in "Cupid, the Cowpuncher," one of his usual good and amusing roles will be given their final showings this afternoon and evening at the Allen. To-morrow and Thursday the Allen offering will be a depiction of the world-famed story of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." John Barrymore, in the dual role, furnishes the screen, so it is claimed, with his greatest bit of character work. The story, too well known, needs little telling, but is one that holds attention from beginning to end with its pathos and thrill. With the above will be shown Pathé News, Christie Comedy and Chester Quins.

TARDINESS SHOWN IN NOMINATIONS

Science Representative Is Elected By Acclamation—Medicine Votes Later.

To-morrow is election day in three Faculties for representatives to the Union House Committee. In Science however only one nomination has been received whereas the faculty is entitled to elect two representatives and accordingly the only Science nominee will be elected by acclamation.

In Arts and Law however more than the required number have been nominated and there is every prospect of a close contest and "electioneering" is already well under way.

Nominations were originally scheduled to close on the 11th, but as the requisite number had not been received by that date the time was extended until six o'clock last evening. Arts has two seats on the Committee and to fill these three names have been submitted, these being E. M. Cockshutt, E. B. Copland and J. M. McDougall. Two men have been nominated from Law which has only one representative to elect and a close contest is expected between J. F. Chisholm and J. Harold, both of Law '21. Science which is entitled to a representation of two has only one nominee, C. S. Jelly, Sci. '22, who will therefore be elected by acclamation.

The fourth and fifth years in Medicine do not resume work until the 19th of the month and elections in that faculty will be held later.

FROSH. VICTIMS OF SOPHS. CUNNING

Lively Entertainment Staged In Molson House Last Night.

Last evening the freshman class were entertained at a house party held in the Old Molson House, behind the stadium. The hosts of the evening were the Sophomores, who provided many and varied entertainments for the benefit of the resident boys from the sand lots. The festivities commenced after the 5 o'clock lecture, when the reception committee, composed of Sophomores, greeted the Freshmen and carried them off to the party arranged in their honor.

Shoe blacking was, as usual, much in evidence and the freshmen presented a sorry spectacle after they had been duly decorated.

After the freshmen had all been collected and entertained to a musical concert provided by themselves, they were marched to the campus where further manifestations of the regard in which they are held by the sops. were exhibited.

They were a very picturesque gathering as they formed a circle on the campus and surrounded by the sops. they gave the freshman yell and ran the gauntlet.

A wonderful flow of oratory emanated from the blackened lips of Mr. Hall, president of the Medical Freshies, in which he wisely lauded the sops, and condemned the regrettable action of some of his class-mates at a downtown theatre Friday night.

The evening's entertainment wound up with a dance by the freshmen, a word of advice to the verdant boys from a sops. and a hearty McGill yell. Everybody seemed to have enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent, and by the looks of some of the poor freshmen more soap will be used in Montreal in the next few days than ever before.

CHESS MEETING AGAIN POSTPONED

Executive Hold Over Meeting On Account Of Lack Of Support.

It is with regret that the executive of the Chess Club announce a further postponement of the opening meeting. The annual meeting, which was scheduled for last night, had to be held over, due to the fact that there were not sufficient members with which to open proceedings. This is most regrettable, and certainly is not consistent with the usual spirit with which McGill students and especially chess enthusiasts, have in the past supported their various activities. Doubtless there were many good reasons to "accept" for the absence of our members—but we wish to make plain that the regular annual meeting will be held on Thursday night, October 14, in the Union, at 7.30 o'clock, and that under no circumstances whatever will the meeting be postponed unless the executive is faced with the deplorable fact that the Chess Club has no supporters.

The executive has spent some time in formulating a constitution and in preparing plans for the season. Application has been made to enter the City League, and unless the men turn out, this, the most important of the club's activities, will fall flat.

If the Chess Club is ably supported by its members, it is not unlikely that a match of some sort may be arranged with "Varsity."

The season last year was very successful, some very good material discovered, and according to present indications, as evidenced by the many games held at the Union daily, there is some very promising material this year.

We trust that everybody at all interested in this, the noblest of games, will be present next Thursday night, at 7.30. Do not think for a moment that the meeting can get along without any one of you—it is absolutely essential that every available man turn out.

Moreover, the elections of the club will be held at this meeting, and it is to your interest and to the interest of McGill that the best men be elected. This can only be accomplished by a full attendance.

experience in this. He is coach of the track team at present.

Practices will commence about the first week in November. Teams will be entered in the Senior, Intermediate and Junior City Leagues, as well as the Intercollegiate.

While several of last year's players will be missing, a successful season is anticipated, as there are many stars of "prep" schools now at college. The men for the various teams will be picked from the showing in the Inter-class games, which will be started early in November.

TIVOLL

One of the most timely photographs ever offered the public is "The Boomerang," which tells a story of absorbing interest and deals with discredited labor, love and intrigue. Its seven reels are packed full of the sort of action and dramatics that will hold your attention from beginning to end. For it was written by a man who knows his subject thoroughly, William Hamilton Osborne, author of many "best sellers" and magazine stories. In "The Boomerang" you will see that sterling actor Henry B. Walthall, one of his greatest roles. He is supported by a carefully selected cast, including Melbourne McDowell, Nina Byron, Helen Jerome Eddy, Nigel De Brullier and Lloyd Whitlock. "The Boomerang" is presented at the Tivoli Theatre to-day. Don't fail to see it.

ENGLISH RUGBY TO THE FORE

Second Practice Yesterday
36 Candidates Turned Out
—Great Enthusiasm.

McGill rugby enthusiasts held their second practice on the old campus yesterday afternoon. Thirty-six candidates for the English Rugby team turned out, and their enthusiasm and numbers augur well for a successful season after a long period of stagnation insofar as rugby at McGill is concerned. The players turning out are representative of every part of Canada and the British Isles, especially those sections of the country in which the English game flourishes.

W. N. Kemp was elected temporary captain at a meeting of the club executive held last night, and will lead the Red and White fifteen against the Montreal Club in the game on Thanksgiving morning. W. W. Beveridge was elected manager pro tem. A permanent list of officials will be selected at a general meeting to be held next week.

Practices will be held by the team this afternoon and to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. On Friday morning the Westerners will line up in a practice tussle against All Others. The game has been decided on to give the selection committee a good chance to choose a fifteen for Monday's fixture. The breezy Westerners are confident that they can take the measure of All Others; but the Easterners and Old Countrymen do not concede the men from the Far West a ghost of a chance. The game is scheduled for 10 a.m. on the old campus.

All prospective candidates who have not been physically examined are urged to attend to this matter immediately, reporting to the Physical Department between 12 noon and 12.30. Those who turn out will be excused physical training, provided they register attendance at the practices with the secretary, Mr. Palmer. Mr. McKay, of Strathcona Hall, well known in Rugby circles in the Maritime Provinces, has been retained to coach the forwards.

London, as a community, uses trains and other transport more than any other city in the world.

An Old INSTITUTION

Friday is set apart in the University calendar as Sports Day—one of the oldest annual institutions of the University.

On that day the field and track men of every year—Senior, Junior, Soph and Freshman, will meet in competition to determine who shall wear the Red and White of Old McGill to represent the University in the Intercollegiate meet.

Are you ready for Sports Day?

At our Store—Itself an old McGill Institution—you will find your Sports Day requirements. Sweaters, Sleeveless Shirts, Trunks and McGill banners.

ENTRY LIST FOR TRACK MEET CLOSED YESTERDAY

Rigid Training of Past Week Will Bear Results—Prospects Excellent For Intercollegiate Meet—Officials Announced For University Games—Admission Thirty-Five Cents—Competition Keen Between Several Years.

What appears to be one of the best lists of entries seen at a University meet for some years was closed last night. The entries are no larger than in past years, but they consist of a group of men who have been working out steadily, and will be in the best of condition to enter the competition. The men are not entered in many events, but have rather specialized in a few, with the intention of showing at their best.

While the entries in any one event are not very heavy, there are none of the events in which the list is not large enough to assure the spectators of lively competition. There are nineteen events in all, and they will be run off in quick succession, so that the meet will not drag.

A competent set of officials, who have been judging meets for years, has been secured, and they will not allow any event to drag during the meet. Dr. Lamb will act as clerk of course, and that means that the men will be on their marks on time or they will not be there when the races start. W. Roughton will handle the pistol. He has been the starter in all of the big meets in Eastern Canada for some years past, and was again chosen as starter for the Dominion Olympic trials last August. He is acknowledged as one of the best in the game, and any man who gets away from him deserves the lead gained thereby.

"Van" has given the track men a course of training that will have them in good condition for the meet, and the contests will all be a real test of ability. From present appearances it would seem that the varsity track team will have several new faces on it this year, and that some of last year's men will have to yield their places. However, every man who has a place on the team will be given a good portion of work to do, and none of them will be overworked, if everything goes as expected.

No forecast may be made of the showing of the team against the squads from Royal Military College, Queens and Toronto Universities, but they will not go down to defeat without a hard fight, and it is expected that they will fight so hard that they will not have to go down to defeat. The team has no idea that an easy task faces them in meeting the other colleges; on the contrary, they expect to have one of the hardest fights in the history of the Intercollegiate meets.

In order that all of the students might attend the games this year, the admission has been fixed at the moderate sum of thirty-five cents. As this will be the only chance of seeing the college track team in action this year, it is expected that a record attendance for any track meet will be on hand. There are four events in which outside clubs may compete, and these will be the attraction for a large crowd of spectators from the city. None of the seats will be reserved, so that the best will go to those who arrive at the stadium earliest.

The work of laying out the lanes on the track and marking off the field will be done to-morrow, and everything will then be ready for the games. The meet will be conducted under the rules of the Intercollegiate Union, and everything will be run off exactly as if it were in the Intercollegiate meet.

Those who saw the McGill team in action last year are sure to be on hand again on Friday. It only remains for them to tell the new men of the treat that awaits them in order to have a full turnout of students at the games.

Of course, there will be the usual contest between the different years to see who can amass the largest number of points. The Sophomores have the largest number of entries, but they will have a hard job to carry off the honors. The Juniors have a long list of entrants, and their number includes some of the best men turning out on the track. Both the Freshmen and Seniors have smaller lists, but they have a number of sure point winners, so that neither of them may be counted out of the race. The class winning the largest number of events, and thereby gaining the greatest aggregate of points, will be allowed to put a shield on the cup set up for annual competition in the Inter-class sports.

UNIVERSITY OF MEXICO TO RE-OPEN

University Is Returned To Its Original Use.

BUILDINGS RENOVATED

Free Tuition To Be Provided
In Near Future.

The National University of Mexico, the corner stone for which was laid in 1584 on the site of the principal palace of Montezuma, but which since 1785 has been devoted to music only, is to be returned to its original purpose as a national college of general education, by the new government of Mexico, according to Joaquin A. Balderon, assistant chief of the national library of Mexico City. He is now in New Orleans on a visit.

"The building which originally housed the National University," said Mr. Balderon, "is still the property of the nation. This institution is now known as the National Conservatory of Music, and will be retained in its entirety in the National University. The building will house some 750 students, though only about 150 are now engaged in musical studies there, and is equipped with furniture and furnishings to care for about 600. New furniture is being purchased and the building generally renovated for the new university, which the Department of Education plans to keep open 12 months a year, beginning January 1, 1921.

"Though the idea originated with Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta, the newly elected President, Alvaro Obregon, is one of its strongest supporters, and will continue the project is already commenced. A fund of 300,000 pesos has been set aside as a preparatory sum for the first work, and another similar amount is expected to be appropriated by the Congress now in session. English is to be taught exactly the same as Spanish, in all classes, and will be compulsory. Branches taught will include courses in languages, history, literature, chemistry, physics, mathematics and pedagogy.

"Mexico already has a good national agricultural college at Tacuba, and this will in time be taken into the National University. There is also a large school of mines which it is planned to incorporate into the university, along with a national school of engineers (civilian) at Peraviello. All three of these schools managed to keep going throughout the 10 years of revolution.

"Correspondence is now being carried on with several American colleges and universities in an effort to get American college teachers to accept chairs in the new Mexican university. The Mexican Government realizes that it must draw strongly from other nations, notably from the United States, to obtain that which it most needs—education.

"The National Museum, which contains the largest collection of Mexican antiquities extant, is opening a school of archaeology, paleontology and ethnology, where, by the payment of a nominal fee, anyone who is interested may attend lectures on the prehistoric life of Mexico. These lectures have attracted considerable attention, and the classes are now self-supporting.

"The government plans to make the new National University free, with the exception of the cost of textbooks and material used in laboratory experiments. It is possible, however, that this cannot be done for the first year or two, and that a tuition fee, which will be small, will be charged when the schools opens January 1, 1921."

LOEW'S.

The bill at Loew's Theatre this week is of an all-round high order, from the British-Canadian Pathe News to the feature film, and the vaudeville is the best seen here in a long time. The show has a lively and well-acted sketch, which has topicality and consistency, a quality rare in vaudeville sketches. Tom Davies and Company stage all the details of a successful strike-breaking of the Housewives Union. Upon arriving home late for supper, the Husband gets a declaration of principles, and The Wife goes on strike and to Union headquarters. Faced with the idea of cooking his own supper, Husband calls in a strike breaker, who is about to send for her trunk when the union employe returns and the strike-breaker is paid off.

Coscia and Verdi are two Italian boys who play the violin and cello with all the ease and charm of highest vaudeville performers, and their rendition of popular pieces last night got first honors in the eyes of the house who called them back in a furor of applause. Nine Crazy Kids, with Bert Rolnick and Don Sherwood is a well-trained singing and dancing organization who play in a school-room scene. One of the two gents looks like Harold Lloyd. Miss Palmer is a chic French girl, who signs and talks in her native language, while Fredericks, the male member of the team pretends not to understand. Miss Palmer is one of the good effects of the Great War O. K. Legends a funny puzzle.

The feature film depicts the joint adventures of a young woman of the American secret service, played by Ethel Clayton, and a British secret service man in Hong Kong. In search of opium smugglers, Miss Clayton goes into danger into the native center, and she is only rescued from a dangerous predicament by the boxing prowess of the Britisher. Thousands of Chinese men and women throng through the narrow streets of the picture, which is evidently filmed somewhere in British-Chinese sphere of influence.

PRINCESS.

The star number in the Princess Theatre programme this week is George Jessel's "Troubles of 1920," a clever satire on the revue epidemic, and one, which in its most interesting and humorous manner, makes unlimited fun at the prevalent craze for this kind of entertainment.

George Jessel is well-known in Montreal, and his work, either as a monologist or screen actor, has made him a favorite with local patrons. On this occasion he is supported by a number of artists who know how to act and sing, and the result is that the offering presented received a very flattering reception at the opening performance yesterday, capacity houses of applauding people greeting both shows. Jessel gave some of his old-time favorites, while his "twelve troublemakers," as he describes them, added considerably to the merriment of the number.

Montreal theatre patrons, is here again on a visit, and is just as entertaining as ever. She has a striking personality, a keen sense of humor, and her impersonations of some of her own sex are true to life. "At the Movies," is probably one of her best interpretations. One of the unusually high class offerings, which are now being occasionally given on the vaudeville stage, is that of Betty Doon, who, in charming stage setting, gives a number of songs. She has an attractive presence, and a good clear voice of much sweetness. Betty is assisted by Robert Berne, a violinist of high standard.

A big reception was accorded to Herbert Brooks, who gave a very clever exposition of tricks with cards. His work was mystifying, his manner of manipulating cards being something beyond the comprehension of those who "watched the way it was done." The Dippy Ders are a pair of clever entertainers, the knock-about work of the "clown" being humorous, while his partner danced with grace and charm.

Billie Regay and Jos. McCormick are good at patter, song, and dance, and the Flying Weavers perform a number of feats of daring on suspended wires. The picture series included the opening of the football season in London, England, and also the opening of the oyster season.

GAYETY.

"Town Scandals" opened their engagement yesterday afternoon, and made a big hit with the audiences both at the afternoon and evening shows. "Peek-A-Boo," which is too well known here to make any comment on, is even surpassed by this show "Town Scandals."

The brightest and cleverest hit seen in burlesque so far this season is Ethel Shutter's argument with the Orchestra leader, the Orchestra walks off, and George Clark recruits an orchestra from the cast, and the scene is handled so well that it causes an uproar of laughter and applause. In this show there is plenty of comedy both clever and slapstick. The principals are all very good and leave nothing to be desired in their respective parts. Last but not least are the chorus, who are very good looking, lively and beautifully groomed. As to George Clark, the leading comedian, there seems no limit to his versatility and whatever he does is a riot and is admirably backed by Chas. Fagan and other men in the cast.

Ethel Shutter is without doubt the best dancer seen in burlesque this season. She has charm, personality, and good looks, and never seems to tire of dancing no matter how great the demands of the audience are.

Judging by the attendance at the Gayety at both shows yesterday there is no doubt left, but that "Town Scandals" will prove the hit of the season at the Gayety this week.

ORPHEUM.

Presenting an attraction which Orpheum Theatre patrons have for some time anticipated with eagerness, the Orpheum Players are this week seen in "The Knife," a drama by Eugene Walter, and if the reception accorded the production last evening may be considered a criterion, the play will prove a strong attraction during the remainder of this, the seventy-fifth week of continuous stock production. The plot of the offering is a most unusual one, combining exceptional acting with a plot which supplies food for thought as to whether the principals concerned were justified in the action taken.

The story has to do with the decision of Dr. Robert Manning, a noted medical man, played by William Naughton, whose fiancée Kate Tarleton, desiring to learn her future, seeks in New York the aid of a clairvoyant. During her visit there she is drugged and mistreated. Aided by Attorney William Meredith (Harvey Hayes) and his assistant Jack Ellis (Hobby Reed) the doctor finds the fortune telling establishment in which Miss Tarleton is held virtually a prisoner, rescues her and through special treatment she is finally restored to health and to the love which has sustained the doctor in the terrible strain through which he passed in his search for the missing girl.

Locating the abductors—"Second Sight Jimmy" and his accomplice, Stella Hill, played respectively by Owen Gill and Miss Mary Green, the doctor decides that instead of killing them for their mistreatment of his fiancée, he will use them in the interests of furthering the study of a serum invention which had been his life study.

The production has ample opportunities for exceptional dramatic ability, and in the clever hands of the Players it proved an excellent medium of entertainment, replete in thrills, yet containing sufficient comedy to relieve to some extent the tense moments which abound in a production of this character.

To William Naughton as Dr. Robert Manning was given the major part of the work through the production and he further added to the host of admirers who have enjoyed his good work with the company. Miss Margaret Knight as the victim of the drug fiends played her part of the offering with dramatic effect, her interpretation of slow recovery from the effects of the drugs administered being an exceptionally clever piece of work, and throughout the entire production she was most pleasing in a difficult assignment.

Much of the success of the production may be ascribed to the excellent work of Harvey Hayes, the lawyer friend of Dr. Manning, and while called upon to share a large portion of the character work, he was seen to excellent advantage throughout, and added still more admirers to the host he has already made here.

A. S. Byron as the Assistant District Attorney, Owen Gill as "Second Sight Jimmy" the inmate of the fortune telling establishment, were most effective in their respective parts, while the latest addition to the Players, Miss Eleanor Carleton created a most favorable impression on her initial appearance and gives promise of becoming a popular member. Other members of the company provided splendid support and the orchestra was heard in a number of enjoyable selections from popular musical comedy productions.

NEW GRAND.

The novel means taken by a wealthy father to make a man of his spoiled son is the theme of the new Goldwyn picture "The Man Who Had Everything," starring Jack Pickford, which is being shown at the New Grand.

Instead of throwing him out on his own resources Mark Bullway (Lionel Belmore), gives his son Harry (Jack Pickford), everything he wants—from a prize bull dog and fancy racing car to permission to wed a young woman of doubtful reputation, with whom Harry thinks he is in love. True Winn (Priscilla Bonner), Bullway's pretty and efficient young secretary, is very much distressed by Harry's actions. She is in love with him, but he overlooks the pearl at his feet in his infatuation for the unscrupulous Lenore Pennell (Shannon Day).

Old Mark buys automobiles, bull dogs, diamond pendants and rings for Lenore—everything that Harry has expressed a wish for. He also visits Lenore and instead of forbidding the match, he agrees to settle a million on her as soon as she marries Harry.

But just as the father had earnestly hoped, his son becomes disgusted with things which he could obtain so easily. He announces his intention of getting a job and earning his own living. All of a sudden he sees in Pruett's adoring face the love which she has had for him all along.

Other pictures make up an excellent bill.

COSCIA'S REAL LOVE IS NOW HIS VIOLIN

There will be thousands of women, young and old, who will have their mental reflections, after they have seen Michael Coscia, handsome Italian violinist, at Loew's Theatre this week, when they couple it with the exclusive information herein. Coscia, of the slender frame and optimistic manner, with the shining teeth, whose personality projects his wonderful playing into the very back row in the gallery, did not have enough to hold Virginia Natalie Shannon, the daughter of William Shannon, a financier formerly of New York and Montreal, it is said, and now of Ottawa.

"You cannot support me the way I should be taken care of," Judge Kichham Scanlan in Circuit Court, Chicago, read in a letter Coscia produced in his divorce proceedings. Whatever may be decided after hearing Coscia play, that is the cold fact; things look different to you when you are 20 than when you are 25, age which Mrs. Coscia reached this year after five years marriage. "This would give you a chance to find happiness with some one else who would suit you better," says the letter.

"That some one else is going to be his violin," Coscia said. "If she can go back to her money, I'll go back to my music, and call the romance off. That's the way of things off stage."

No. Coscia is not a long-haired individual, nor does he play sentimental pieces on his violin. He does not look as if violin playing was at all a serious proposition. There is a great deal of ease, and no heart-break visible. Coscia is a slender modern Italian, with charm and that's exactly what kind of a violin player he looks like.

Coscia plays joyfully, and his interludes just now look as if he were 100 per cent. interested in violin and his art.

DAY'S DOINGS AT COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

Dr. Archibald Gave Illustrated Lecture.

McGILL PROMINENT.

Attract Four Of Her Men On Yesterday's Programme.

At the afternoon session of the convention yesterday, McGill men figured prominently on the programme, five surgeons having been leaders in the discussion.

The first paper, entitled "Anatomical Studies on the Circulation of the Blood," by Dr. Louis Gross, of the Department of Pathology here, received much and well-deserved applause. Dr. Gross first briefly explained the technique employed in his studies, which was an original method, essentially the injection of heavy salts into the vessels of the organ to be studied. Afterwards they are photographed whole and in section. The speaker then took up various organs in turn, showing clearly and in great detail by means of a set of excellent slides, their minute anatomy.

Following the paper, Professor H. Oertel, of McGill, and Dr. E. L. Keyes, Jr., of New York, dealt with the subject from a clinical point of view, showing the value of this method of study in the diagnosis of the various diseases affecting these organs.

The "Circulation of the Uterus" was then dealt with by Dr. Fraser, of this city, being followed by a discussion on this topic, in which Dr. John Clark, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Richard Smith, of Grand Rapids, Mich., took part. Dr. Clark especially emphasized the importance of applying this scientific knowledge to everyday problems which the clinician has to face.

Dr. F. A. C. Scrimger then gave a brief resume of a number of extremely interesting cases treated in the Royal Victoria Hospital, in which massive collapse of the lung followed operations for hernia and haemorrhoids. In the majority of these cases, the chief symptoms of which dyspnoea, with raising of the diaphragm on the affected side together with displacement of the heart to that side, the lung suddenly returned to normal and the symptoms disappeared. The speaker supported his statement with X-ray photographs from these cases. In conclusion, he referred to a series of experiments on animals in which stimulation of certain branches of the vagus produced massive collapse of the lung. This would tend to explain the phenomena of collapse after operation in the patients observed.

The concluding speaker was Dr. Archibald, whose fame has long since extended beyond the narrow limits of this country. In a most convincing manner he demonstrated with the assistance of slides and a motion picture machine the action of the splinter of the common bile duct. The views showed the influence of various fluid pressures in the common duct upon its splinter. In conclusion, Dr. Archibald explained its clinical significance with special reference to cases of acute pancreatitis.

The evening session of the second day of the convention of the American College of Surgeons was held in the ballroom of the Windsor Hotel, at 8.00 o'clock.

The programme consisted of a symposium on Intestinal Obstruction and one on Blood Transfusion.

In the former, five members of the College read papers, each dealing with a different aspect of the same great pathological condition.

J. T. M. Finney, M.D., of Baltimore, began with a paper on "Acute Intestinal Obstruction," in which he dealt with the clinical aspects of the question, emphasizing the fact that although one of the great necessities was to make an early diagnosis, a certain percentage of the cases responded to purely palliative and medicinal treatment, no surgical interference being necessary.

Harvey B. Stone, M.D., of Baltimore, followed with a discussion of "The Toxic Agents Developed in the Course of Acute Intestinal Obstruction and Their Action." One great theory was that the toxemia was due to products manufactured by the cells of the intestinal mucosa, which were absorbed from the mucosal cells into the blood stream. Others explain the symptom complex of the condition as due to disorganization of the splanchnic nerve supply. The speaker, however, believed that the toxic agents were produced by the action of bacteria on the succus entericus, thus forming toxic degradation products of the split up protein molecule.

LeGrand Guerry, M.D., of Columbia, then spoke on "The Pre-operative Treatment of Intestinal Obstruction." He pointed out the fact that the longer the period elapsing between the onset of the symptoms and the operative treatment, the less chance the patient had for recovery, and the higher the mortality.

SHAUGHNESSY INSTILLS 'PEP' IN SENIORS

Difficulty Encountered In Finding Quarters.

JUNIORS PLAY MAC.

Intermediates Stand Up Well To Seniors.

Under perfect weather conditions the three Red and White football squads went through stiff work-outs on the stadium yesterday afternoon.

Shaughnessy, somewhat dissatisfied with the showing made by the senior team at Kingston on Saturday, pointed out the defects which accounted for the apparent weakness of the line. The plays were reviewed time and again, and an attempt made to instill more "pep" and force into the line plunges.

The second team was lined up against the regulars and presented a fairly strong line. The latter should give a good account of themselves in their league.

The problem of placing the quarter back position has not yet been solved. Normie Wallace, who started in on Saturday, played a steady game until he was injured, but he still shows a lack of experience. "Boo" Anderson was played at quarter in the practice yesterday, and showed up very well. The question hinges, of course, on the fact whether he can be spared from the back position, and a good man substituted for him. Wilson, who took his place in the game against the Old Boys, is a first-rate man, and ought to develop into a star back.

So far, little is known of the strength of the Varsity team, but with so large a registration as Toronto has, there should be no feeling that McGill will have the league all to herself. From the standpoint of weight, the Red and White line looks little to be desired by any coach. With considerably more practice, the necessary speed ought to be developed, and then a team as strong as any that has represented McGill within the last few years will go out on the gridiron.

In preparation for their game against Macdonald to-day, the Juniors were put through a strenuous practice, which lasted until the ball was no longer visible owing to the lateness of the hour. Some good form was shown, and a strong team will travel out to St. Anne's this afternoon. The line-up will probably be as follows: Flying wing, Mallison; halves, Pierce, Williamson and Whittall; quarter, Crane; middle wings, Donigan and Eno; outside, Hamilton and Harley; inside wings, Puddicombe and Foss; scrums, Johnston, Reid and Evans.

"THE MAID OF THE MOUNTAIN," AT HIS MAJESTY'S.

Nothing succeeds like success, and His Majesty's are enjoying some of that which enabled "The Maid of the Mountain" to hold the public in the centre of English-speaking musical and dramatic art, life and appreciation for five years, and still going with unabated interest.

The demand for the rents and the crowded and enthusiastic house with the opening of the second week last night, illustrate something of the haunting witchery of this notable production. Thousands who could not be accommodated last week are now getting a chance and many who were there before are going again. It is to the credit of the company and management that many in their Montreal audiences saw the production now running in London. While "far-off seas look the bluest" those who compare the present with what they saw in the British metropolis make no unfavorable comparisons and are avowedly delighted.

Conditions are such in Montreal that long runs such as are not uncommon in big producing centres are not possible here, so this is our last week of "The Maid of the Mountain," other contracts and engagements compelling the company to proceed on tour of Canada and the United States, while the theatre is obliged to clear the decks for another action.

tion was brought to a close by John E. Summers, M. D., of Omaha, who spoke on "Enterostomy in the Treatment of Acute Intestinal Obstruction," and Chas. H. Peck, M.D., of New York, whose paper dealt with "Obstruction of the Colon and Ileocolic Junction."

The symposium on "Blood Transfusion" was begun by Nelson M. Percy, of Chicago, who spoke on "Blood Transfusion in Chronic Anaemias." He explained the various methods of administering blood in anaemia, and discussed the clinical aspect of several cases in some detail.

This was followed by a paper on "Acidosis in Operative Surgery and Its Treatment by Glucose and Gum Acacia Given Intravenously," by Lillian K. P. Farrar, M.B., of New York. The programme was ended by a discussion of this paper by L. Bruce Robertson, M.D., of Toronto, and E. H. Mason, M.D., of Montreal.

ROOTERS SHOUT THE OLD YELLS

Important Club Should Receive Student Support.

Although only a comparatively small number of men were present at Strathcona Hall yesterday afternoon for the workout of the Rooters' Club, a very successful meeting took place. Under the inspired leadership of Teedles Thompson, the yells and songs published in Tuesday's "Daily" were given a hearty and noisy airing. Teedles was ably assisted by Joe Wain.

The meeting opened with a witty speech by cheer leader Thompson, who pointed out that the Rooters' Club was an all essential organization. First, it produces uniform cheering, which results in more volume; secondly, organized yelling has a more stimulating effect; and thirdly, it causes a discouraged feeling among the opposing players that spasmodic yelling can never hope to produce. After this, with Messrs. Chub Lebaron and Les. Chaudinger alternating on the music box, all the old favorites, such as Tammany, Hall Alma Mater, Come Fill Up Your Glasses, and the rest, were rendered with such snap, pep and enthusiasm that the success of the club would certainly be assured if only a larger number would turn out to practices. On account of this fact, it was decided to hold another meeting on Thursday at five in Strathcona Hall, where a bunch of new songs, parodies and yells that were received in response to the leader's appeal in his speech will be tried out.

Plans were also made for a Rooters' Band to act in conjunction with the club at the games. Several handymen were out yesterday, but many more are needed, so if you can play, come out on Thursday at five with your instrument. If you can play a wind piece or a drum, and have no instrument here, see Chub Lebaron, second year Science, and he will get you one. Kazoos are also being procured to add either music or noise to the meeting.

The Rooters' Club deserves the support of every man in the school that does not play football and especially the support of the Freshmen class. At yesterday's meeting only about a quarter of those present were Freshmen. This state of affairs is too bad when there are such talented men as Thompson and Wain to lead the cheering and such a team as we have to cheer for. So let's get together and back the men who are going to bring fresh laurels to McGill this year. The way to do this is to come out on Thursday at five in Strathcona Hall. Remember that rooters get reserved seats for half price.

BADGE RULES.

Every year there is some trouble about the use of non-regulation uniforms and crests about the campus and stadium. The trouble is only with the freshmen, who are ignorant of the regulations concerning the use of "foreign" badges.

It is only natural that the freshmen should be proud of the prep. school from which they have graduated, but, once they have become students at McGill, they are bound by regulation to wear no other crest but that of Old McGill.

The ruling concerning the use of badges is as follows:

"The promiscuous use of non-regulation uniforms and the wearing of 'foreign' badges on the campus, or at any University athletic contest, is prohibited, and if this offence be persisted in after due warning, such offender may be debarred from participation in University athletics until reinstated by the Athletic Association."
